Breakwater Resources Ltd.: Update on Honduras

TORONTO, ONTARIO--(Marketwire - June 29, 2009) - Breakwater (TSX:BWR) advises that operations at its' Mochito Mine in Honduras have been unaffected by the change in government there yesterday. There has been no disruption to the operations nor are any anticipated at this time. All production and shipping schedules are intact. We are monitoring the situation closely and will update on any change to the current status.

Breakwater is a mining, exploration and development company which produces and sells zinc, copper, lead and gold concentrates to customers around the world. The Company's concentrate production is derived from three mines in Chile, Honduras and Canada. Breakwater's Langlois mine in Quebec, Canada is currently on temporary care and maintenance.
