Introductory Note

(Please read carefully before using this directory)

It has been three years since the inaugural publication of this Directory, but it would be fair to say that during this period the improvement in the availability of online information on African mining or mineral-related government departments, organisations and companies has been disappointing, compared with the fast-paced development in this regard elsewhere. Many African-based organisations and companies still do not have websites, and much of the information gleaned for the first edition has not been updated by the relevant organisations.

From the above it will be obvious that most of the information was sourced on the World Wide Web and it is on this medium that the updating and finalisation of this the second edition will depend. So while it was the intention to make this publication a world resource, due to the problems encountered in verifying the data and the time constraints, this publication is being put in the public domain as a work in progress and will be revised periodically, before it can achieve that status.

The relevant organisations and companies are encouraged to report errors, updates and omissions to the compiler (contact details given below).

This is a free publication – the compiler and the Department of Minerals & Energy do not gain commercially from its distribution. It is viewed as a minerals/mining promotion tool and could become a valuable world resource with the necessary interaction and feedback.

This directory is biased towards those companies, government departments and organisation that do have web sites. This is an advantage because web site URLs do not change as often as telephone and fax numbers and therefore the user will be able to update information by simply visiting the web site listed. Those web sites that do change usually have the new URL on the old site to reconnect the user while some automatically redirect the user. Furthermore, with the electronic version of this directory, the user can simply click on the URL to connect to the site.

In most cases the corporate contact details are given, even though the operational office is in Africa or elsewhere. Most corporate offices are in Canada, Australia, USA, UK or South Africa. This is to enable the user to get the information required from the Corporate Communications Office or the Investor Relations Office of the company or organisation.

This directory is targeted at government departments or diplomatic missions especially those related to, or involved with mining or natural resources in general.

SECTION 1

AFRICAN MINING-RELATED GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS: CAUTIONARY NOTE TO READER

This section lists government organisations by country (alphabetically), including ministries, geological surveys and bureaux that are mining, mineral or mineral-investment related.

Only government organisations that have their own websites, those that are listed on government websites or those whose contact details could be corroborated with a reasonably reliable online directory have been included. This however does not necessarily mean that the contact details are correct or up-to-date.

This is a work in progress, therefore, organisations listed are encouraged to report errors, omission and updates to the compiler:

SECTION 2

MINERAL/MINING ORGANISATIONS: CAUTIONARY NOTE TO READER

This section lists (alphabetically) the mineral or mining-related organisations, which are based in Africa and those international organisations that have an influence on, or are connected to, the mining industry in Africa or the minerals produced by African countries.

Once again, only organisations that have their own websites, those that are listed on authoritative websites or those whose contact details could be corroborated with a reasonably reliable online directory have been included. This however does not necessarily mean that the contact details are correct or up-to-date.

This is a work in progress, therefore, organisations listed are encouraged to report errors, omission and updates to the compiler:

SECTION 3

MINING COMPANIES: CAUTIONARY NOTE TO THE READER

This section lists (alphabetically) mining or exploration companies operating in, or with interests in Africa.

Unfortunately, most of the companies listed are foreign-based, as these tend to have a presence on the World Wide Web.

Generally, this section focuses on mining and exploration companies operating in Africa outside South Africa. Some South African exploration and larger mining companies have been included, but for a fuller listing see the directory titled: Operating Mines and Quarries in South Africa, which is also available free-of-charge from the afore-mentioned sources.

For each entry “Activity” is a short description of the company’s project, property, mine or other interest in Africa (mainly outside South Africa).

Once again, only mining companies that have their own websites, those that are listed on authoritative websites or those whose contact details could be corroborated with a reasonably reliable online directory have been included. This however does not necessarily mean that the contact details are correct or up-to-date.
